CATCH THE ACTION

Finally a Digital SLR that records videos as well. The Nikon D90's 12.3 MP CMOS sensor helps in getting true-to-life colours. In the movie mode, the camera can record 720P HD video at 24 frames per second. Along with the viewfinder, it also has a 170-degree wide angle LCD, enabling the users to take pictures while holding the camera above eye-level.

Flight Path

The sized-down replica of this popular combat helicopter is great fun. The remote-controlled AH-64 comes with extra set of main rotor blades and rechargeable batteries. The best facet about this model is the operating range. Fliers need not run around with the copter, as the range radius is 120 feet.

HEAVY METAL

Want the ultimate home theatre experience? Only a pair of these futuristic looking Bang and Olufsen Beolab 5 speakers will give an out-of-the-world experience right inside your living room. Designed by David Lewis, each speaker weighs 69 kg. Each has a total sound output of 2,500W. Frequency range is between 20 and 20,000 KHz and the speakers come with a remote control. Adding to the whole effect, the speaker system is made of aluminum that helps in providing extra bass and treble.
