

ART EXHIBITION

Etching in Time

What A collection of drawings, fig 1, a show by Mariam Suhail, represents mundane life and actions in real situations. They are all paper drawings with a permanent marker.

Who Mariam Suhail studied fine arts at the Indus Valley School of Art and Architecture, Karachi, where she also taught visual art. The artist seems to have done it all from sculptures to video art. She participated in the Tanager Mor 2 Island International Artist International Residency in Scotland. In 2007, Suhail showed her work, Some Blind Alleys, in Delhi.

Where A month-long show starting from June 27 at Gallery SKE, Bangalore.

by Nirmala Ravindran

A SKETCH
BY SUHAIL

EXHIBITION

Down Memory Lane

Jashn Osianama, an exhibition from Osian's archive, is on till July 2 at Mumbai's Jehangir Art Gallery and from July 4 to 21 at Delhi's Visual Arts Gallery.

Gandhiji and the Nationalistic Struggle

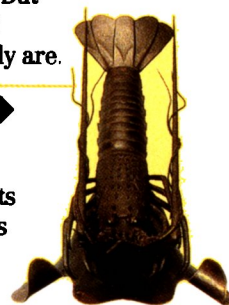

The title is self-explanatory. Art works of the era by D.P. Roy Chowdhary and A. Paida Raju and lithographs and photographs by Henri Cartier Bresson are just a glimpse.

Death as News Roop Kanwar's controversial sati or self-immolation in Rajasthan and the Indian Airlines plane crash are just some images on display. The section includes photographs documenting violence in India by Reuters photographers during the 1980s-90s.

Death and Attack from Outer Space Posters as memorabilia aren't new. But Vintage Hollywood horror and sci-fi posters from the 1950s-60s definitely are.

Defending with Honour Japanese Samurai armour and Ningyo dolls from 16th to 19th century Japan comprise this selection. Expect helmets shaped like crayfish and intricate dolls of leather and silk brocade. Kinky.

IF YOU HAVE 80 MINUTES to revisit a musical era, then listen to the unreleased songs of the album Tere Baigar composed by Madan Mohan, in the voices of Lata Mangeshkar, Asha Bhosle, Talat Mahmood and Mohd. Rafi.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

It's Raining BEATS

Come July, the rains will get a thumping welcome with the beats of tabla, pakhawaj and jal-tarang. As Mumbai's Nehru Centre returns with the over two-decade-old Megh Malhar, the three-day annual festival promises to enthrall music lovers. This year, Megh Malhar has a wide variety of music in store for the audiences. Titled Barkha: The Rhythm of Rain—Boondon Ki Taal Par, the festival will see artistes representing different schools of music. Vocalists and percussionists will offer Chandra from the South, while the thirst for rain will be reflected through the performances of the Mangniar singers and the Khadtaal artistes. Performing artistes include Meeta Pandit, Jayirth Merundi, Girish Sanzgiri and Anil Paudwal. On from July 1 to 3.

by Swati Mathur

MEETA
PANDIT

TIBHUVAN TIWARI