

PARTICIPANTS OF THE GAY PRIDE MARCH IN DELHI

PRIDE

It's taken the LGBT community two decades to gain an equal and legal status in the society. Almost.

addressing issues like HIV.
1992 Bombay Dost realises it cannot handle all the letters and ties up with evolving gay groups in Delhi, Kolkata and Bangalore. It later evolves into the The Humsafar Trust (HST).

1994 The Naz Foundation is set up in Delhi by Anjali Gopalan, who had earlier worked on issues related to AIDS, marginalised communities in the US and wanted to continue the work in India.
1995 The HST

RAVISH SAHANI

conducts a series of gay conferences across India for the first time and educates people about health issues and social pressures.

2001 Naz files a Public Interest Litigation challenging Section 377 of the Indian Penal Code in the Delhi High Court that considers homosexuality a criminal offence.
2005 Author Vikram Seth becomes one of the first Indian public figures to come out of the closet.

2008 A gay pride parade is held in Mumbai. Homosexuality comes out on the street and on the front pages.

2009 Homosexuality is decriminalised in India.