

BERS

A statistical take on urban India's health mixes cheer with caution: we are eating wisely, getting slimmer and coping better with daily stressors. But below the surface, there's more than what meets the eye.

SMARTER EATERS

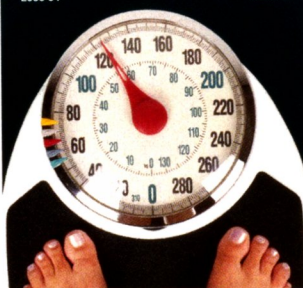

HEMANT CHAWLA

29% children have seriously imbalanced diets, with 32% consuming junk food at least 3 times a week

SHRINKING WAISTLINE

11% drop in people with excess body fat ratio compared to muscle mass in the last 10 years in urban India

COMPRESSION OF MORBIDITY?

With improved healthcare and lifestyle, a nation can start living longer and better. Not just longer with more sickness and disability...

3 kg is the excess weight the average Indian male carries while the female is overweight by 7 kg

22% exercise daily, while another 22% pump iron at least once a week
