

Hope is Back in Business

JUNE 8, 2009

There is a growing sense in India Inc that the worst is over. Entrepreneurs and CEOs across sectors believe there is a feelgood factor and that the tender shoots of tentative recovery could grow roots if the UPA gets it right.

“ With the Good Doctor at the helm of affairs, it is expected that he would prescribe the best medication to help the economy recover from its blues and grow substantially. ”

V.K. TANGRI, via www.indiatoday.in

End of Bad Times

Is the worst over (“Hope is Back in Business”, June 8)? It is good to be optimistic, but certainly not when the odds are heavily stacked against the economy. To get it out of the tunnel, massive rebuilding measures are required. To say the least, simply giving stimulus packages may not be enough. The Government has to get its act together and bridge the gap between rural supply and urban demand on a fast-track basis.

HEMANT GHOSH, Kolkata

Turn of the Tigris

The landslide victory of Trinamool Congress chief Mamata Banerjee in West Bengal (“All the Didi’s Men”, June 1), is indeed a victory against the misrule of the CPI(M), a party with

Rage of Religion

Religion used to be the opium of the masses when there was abject poverty, widespread illiteracy and great inequality (“In the Name of Religion”, June 8). It is unfortunate that it still continues to be so. Religion should spread peace and not hatred. It should unite the world, not divide it.

COLONEL R.D. SINGH, Leh

How is the common man in Punjab to blame for the killing of Sant Rama Nand in Vienna, thousands of miles away from India? Grief and anger over loss of his life can be expressed in a peaceful manner by his followers. Damaging public property for religion’s sake cannot be tolerated. Holding the government machinery to ransom in the name of protest is very unfortunate and highly condemnable.

Dr S.K. AGARWAL, Aurkhar

utopian ideology. The dwarfing of the Left certainly underlines Banerjee’s big win, but whether this verdict will usher in a new dawn over the Bay of Bengal is unthinkable because Didi’s brand of politics is only lesser than the Left.

Banerjee’s vision does not extend beyond herself and she firmly believes in unitary authority. Devoid of inclusive leadership, the future of West Bengal still appears bleak.

KRISHNADAS KARMAKAR, Hooghly

Vanishing Stripes

The dwindling tiger population in the country is cause for alarm (“The Purge of Panna”, June 8). All efforts have often been marred by the self-interest and ego of those who had initially “volunteered”

FOR SUBSCRIPTION ASSISTANCE, CONTACT: Customer Care, India Today Group, A-61, Sector-57, Noida (Uttar Pradesh)-201301.
Phones: 2479900 from Noida, 95120-2479900 from Delhi and Faridabad, and 0120-2479900 from Rest of India.
Toll Free No.: 1800 1800 100. Fax: 0120-4078080. E-mail: wecare@intoday.com