

Q&A "I love Jay Leno's sarcastic remarks"

The sari's still there but the glycerine's gone. Smriti Irani returns to TV but this time for comedy in her new sitcom Maniben.com on SAB TV. Perched on a scooter, she fires away.

Q. What makes you laugh?

A. Stupid baseless controversies cooked up to fill space in newspapers.

Q. What makes you cry?

A. I've cried so much on TV in the last nine years that I just can't cry in real life any more.

Q. How was the first day of shooting for a comedy?

A. People on the sets didn't think I had a sense of humour. Moreover when they saw me on a scooter, they ran away.

BAUBLE BUST

Super-sized glares. Check. Manicured nails. Check. BlackBerry. Check. Not a hair astray but Sheetal Mafatlal wasn't dressed for a soiree. The socialite was devoid of her bling in court on June 8, a day before she got bail for not declaring the actual value of jewellery worth Rs 53 lakh with which she came from London to Mumbai on June 7. With the family feud spilling over into the tabloids, the world knows that the Mafatlal stash is really not too big to tail. Guess Sheetal was only doing her bit to save it.

Twin Wonders

President Pratibha Patil awarded Shruti and Gore Bhatla with the Bal Shri award and they have also won the Shaurya Award. The 16-year-olds suffer from a physical disability but it doesn't stop them. The duo recently sung for their first music album. "We are thrilled that it is almost ready for release."

Game's Up

When it was rumoured that Soha Ali Khan was going to host a game show, the actor went to town denying it. But as it turns out, the actor announced it at a press conference recently. Khan, who has been in the news more for her liaison with Kunal Khemu than her films, will host Godrej Khelo Jeeto Jiyo, a game show on Star Plus. What were you waiting for, Soha? The cheque to reach your bank, eh?
