

COVER STORY
INDIA'S BEST COLLEGES THE INDIA TODAY-NIELSEN SURVEY

ENGINEERING

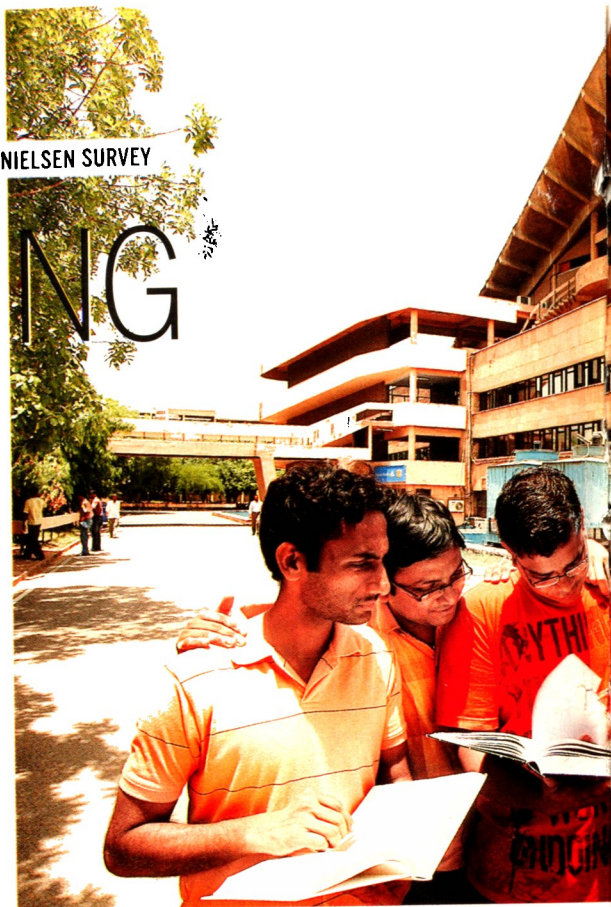

While IIT-Delhi remains the undisputed leader, BITS-Pilani emerges as the best privately run institute followed by VIT-Vellore. Five new institutions are among the winners.

2009		2008	2007
>> 1	Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi	1	2
^ 2	Indian Institute of Technology, Kharagpur	4	5
v 3	Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur	2	1
^ 4	Indian Institute of Technology, Madras	5	3
v 5	Indian Institute of Technology, Bombay	3	4
>> 6	Indian Institute of Technology, Roorkee	6	6
★ 7	Birla Institute of Technology and Sciences, Pilani	-	-
^ 8	Institute of Technology, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi	9	18
v 9	Indian Institute of Technology, Guwahati	7	7
>> 10	Vellore Institute of Technology, Vellore	10	14

National rankings are derived from a combination of perceptual and factual scores. Colleges that did not provide factual information were not ranked. Faculties were not considered.

★ New entrants in the Top 10. (—) Not ranked in the Top 10.

| By Diksha Madhok |

As the IITs continue to reign, Delhi retains its Numero Uno position from last year, while IIT-Kharagpur moves two notches up to second place, nudging IIT-Kanpur to the third slot. The only exception in the IIT run has been IIT-Guwahati, which has slipped from seventh to ninth position. Birla Institute of Technology and Sciences (BITS), Pilani, which has rejoined the survey after a hiatus, rockets to seventh place to emerge as the best privately run engineering institute.

While IIT-Delhi ranked first on all counts like reputation, academic input, infrastructure and job placement, it stood second in terms of student care. That, however, did not make a difference to its top position in both perceptual and factual scores. IIT-Kharagpur, with a ranking of five for each theme, came second on the factual rank, thus beating IIT-Kanpur, which scored four on the themes but fell to the sixth place on the factual score. The key mantra at IIT-Delhi has been empowerment of the academic community, be it students, research scholars or the faculty. While the open

DIRECTORSPEAK Surendra Prasad, IIT-Delhi

"This year we crossed the Rs 100-crore mark in our research funding. We encourage an aptitude for research in the academic community from other engineering colleges as well."

