

ROSES AND POSES

MUMBAI | Fighting Unfit

The city police are not as fighting fit as they should be. A health survey conducted by hospitals to study the fitness levels of policemen shows that the Mumbai police is far from fighting fit. According to the survey, about 64 per cent of the personnel are overweight and over 30 per cent need to be treated for various medical problems. The survey was conducted on around 4,000 police personnel to understand the major health problems affecting the force. It is believed that the Mumbai commissionerate has now ordered a detailed survey of the entire 44,000-strong police force and is also planning to make an annual check-up compulsory for the all its men. The study was conducted by the King Edward Memorial Hospital, Sion and Nair hospitals across 20 police stations in the city. Better late than never to lose some weight.
