

THE NEW AVATAR

APRIL 27, 2009

Leading a presidential-style campaign, the BJP's prime ministerial candidate undergoes yet another makeover as a techno-savvy moderniser and moderate in his last struggle for power. Inside the mind of Candidate Advani.

“Whether he wins or loses, L.K. Advani is to be admired for his lofty ambition, strategic planning, drive and energy at an age when those younger feel shy of standing even for a local election.”

Y.G. CHOUKSEY, via www.indiatoday.in

Fiesty Leader

There is no doubt that L.K. Advani knows it very well that this is the last opportunity for him to take a shot at the top position (“The New Avatar”, April 27). But just being tech-savvy, resorting to his party's age-old agenda of Ram Mandir yet again and criticising Manmohan Singh as the weakest prime minister will not take him too far. He needs to show a great vision for the country, one which is beyond caste and religion.

BAL GOVIND,
Noida

It is surprising that L.K. Advani is maintaining his confidence despite his party getting deeper and deeper in tribulations of sorts. This is surely due

BANDEEP SINGH

Passing the Baton

Clean politics can best be achieved by pumping young blood into politics (“The Young Surge”, April 20). Old timers will find it difficult to discontinue what they have been used to for decades. It may take years for the overhaul, but the process of transfusion must start. Each one of us holds the key to good governance and clean politics, then why not use it?

COLONEL R.D. SINGH, via www.indiatoday.in

The achievements made by the young entrepreneurs are very inspiring and will motivate many more of them to fall in line and strive towards worthy accomplishments in life.

V.K. TANGRI, via www.indiatoday.in to his seasoning as a politician that today he is seen as the epitome of maturity. Advani's remarkable energy that drives him is something that younger politicians must emulate.

K. CHIDANAND KUMAR,
Bangalore

Prime Market

The analysis of the Bazaar deserves appreciation for expressing the common man's concern at the deteriorating political environment and showcasing political insecurity, bankruptcy of consciousness, breach of faith, bargains, promises made and broken, and ever-increasing contenders in a shameless pursuit of power (“The Great Prime Minister Bazaar”, April 20).

DR VITULL K. GUPTA,
Bhatinda

FOR SUBSCRIPTION ASSISTANCE, CONTACT: Customer Care, India Today Group, A-61, Sector-57, Noida (Uttar Pradesh)-201301.
Phones: 2479900 from Noida, 95120-2479900 from Delhi and Faridabad, and 0120-2479900 from Rest of India.
Toll Free No.: 1800 1800 100. Fax: 0120-4078080. E-mail: wecare@intoday.com