

Sibling Games

As if Rakhi Sawant wasn't enough, it's now Rahul Mahajan's turn to go on a TV hunt for a life partner. Taking part in the reality show Rahul Dulhaniya Le Jaayega, he will choose between 16 eligible bachelorettes. Even after a failed marriage, Mahajan will never learn.

No Stopping

One might have forgotten her role in Kabul Express but here's reason why the actor from Texas, Linda Arsenio, should be noticed. Determined to make a lasting impression in Indian cinema, the actor will soon be seen in Pazhassi Raja, a Malayalam film. "I play the role of an English woman who travels to India with her fiancée and becomes a freedom fighter," says Arsenio. She has also signed a film with Bobby Deol and another where she will play the role of Sonia Gandhi.

Idle Worship

The Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj statue may have garnered ample political support, but the monument is not cutting ice with a section of Mumbaikars. Led by music composer Vishal Dadlani, the online campaign against the statue already has nearly 15,000 supporters and a PIL is likely to be submitted to the Bombay High Court next week. "We are all for honouring Shivaji Maharaj. But this is a drought year. A way to really honour him would be to use these funds to solve farmers' problems and provide education," says Dadlani. Will the Maratha stand or fall?

RAMP IT UP

Sometimes it should be just about the cover and not the book. Men walking in Lakme Fashion Week—fab or drab?

Dressed for the masquerade Shreyas Talpade (L) was just not cut out for the green churidar and bandhgala by Digvijay Singh; not to mention the pixie chappals.

Stay on screen, please Manoj Bajpai's awkward walk at Troy Costa's show should not have been allowed.

First act, then walk Aftab Shivdasani (R) needs a hit. He should have got one before walking in that shiny jacket.

Man candy But at last, all wasn't lost. John Abraham looked every bit the ex-model in a Rocky S suit.
