An intimate look at China through young Indian eyes.

Spanning twenty-four hours of the Cannes Film Festival, an engrossing picture of a world overrun by glamour and excess.

A delightful romp through the five-star world of champagne brunches, gay soirées, and the dilemmas of hip young girls on the lookout for love and matrimony.

Are principles more important than friendship? Does a student of medicine have the luxury of fighting personal battles while patients' lives are at stake?

What do you do when you are a twenty-five-year-old Yale graduate making half a million dollars a year as a hotshot investment banker on Wall Street?

India is known as a country not of innovation but of improvisation. But that has begun to change. Eleven case studies of those who have turned industry norms upside down to pull off the impossible.

A concise, easily read story that reveals three very practical secrets: One Minute Goals, One Minute Praisings, and One Minute Reprimands. Simple methods that have worked well with so many people.

The classic account of the transformation of a country and also the transformation of the author himself—from a troop doctor to a revolutionary leader, soon to become one of the greatest icons of the twentieth century.
