

PHOTO EXHIBITION

Visual Impressions

'Exhibit A' has been organised by the Photographers' Guild of India with the aim of presenting photography as a fine art form. On display from September 5 to 13 at Mumbai's Tao Art Gallery.

BHAIRAVI PARIKH, 27

A fine art photography award winner, Parikh made her first solo exhibition, called Flora, with landscapes that captured in crisp detail, the symmetry, colour, form and texture of nature. Here, Parikh has photographed a tree and shown it in negative effect. Part of a series, Parikh's image is inspired by Japanese art.

JIMIT SHAH, 27

The concept behind Shah's image was to shoot a singer in her element with a visual depiction of what she was singing. While this form of photography is called "painting with light", the technique used is really quite basic—completely lit by a single torch or flashlight. In effect, the image looks like a visual depiction of electrifying energy.

photography is called "painting with light", the technique used is really quite basic—completely lit by a single torch or flashlight. In effect, the image looks like a visual depiction of electrifying energy.

NRUPEN MADHVANI, 53

Titled 'Ivy', Madhvani's photograph is a part of his new series of work. The picture combines two elements of reality. First, Madhvani has shot the ivy-ridden walls and windows. Subsequently, the model, with the right treatment and make-up, has been superimposed on the first image so that her hair appears as an extension of the ivy on the wall. The second of a 25-part limited edition series, this is Madhvani's only image on display. by Swati Mathur

ART EXHIBITION

The Sculpted TRUTH

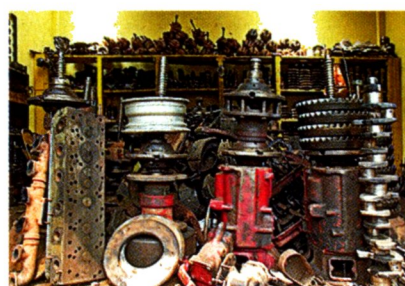

Come September, art aficionados can feast their eyes on 15 new sculptural works of S. Nandagopal, 63, one of India's best-known artists. In his current collection, The Wheel as a Metaphor & Other Sculptures, this Lalit Kala Academy National Award winner will feature sculptures in copper and brass. This is the metal worker and ceramist turned sculptor's first solo exhibition in Mumbai. On display at the Museum Art Gallery from September 1 to 6; subsequently at Art Musings Gallery till September 30.

by Swati Mathur

ART EXHIBITION

Junk It

What Photos featuring a public space like the Gujari (junkyard in Kannada) and exploring the notions of 'junk'.

Who Pavan K. J., photographer, percussionist and back-up vocalist for the well-known band Swaratma. Winner of several awards for photography. His works reveal his interest in community art projects. He hopes the view will reflect upon objects and life-cycles and the existence of this parallel world in a society that is increasingly turning more consumerist.

When and where From September 5 to 30 at Sumukha Gallery, Bangalore.

by Nirmala Ravindran