

First Cut

For 18 years, composer and guitarist Dhruv Ghanekar has been making music for others. The musician, who's worked on innumerable ads and films, is now releasing his first solo album, Distance. "It's called Distance because of how far I've come and how much I've changed as a musician. It also signifies the time it's taken to bring it out," says the 34-year-old. Two years in the making, the album has Ghanekar working with his favourites like Joey Heredia, Hussain Jiffry and Carl Clements. "I just took off to Los Angeles and recorded over 20 days," he says. Noteworthy, indeed.

"The pain is still there, which means we haven't really moved on after what happened. The song is meant to console and share the trauma."

Wheel Power

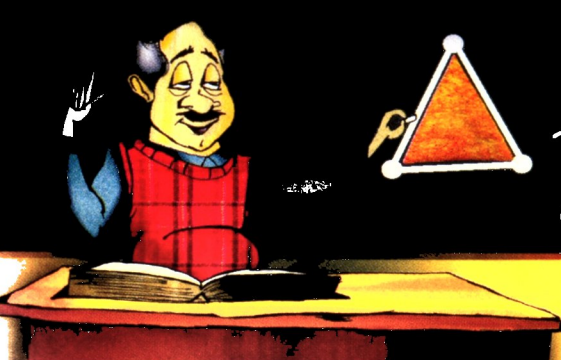

The glitz of films has attracted many shutterbugs. But Shraddha Kadakia remains unfazed. This automobile photographer is the country's sole woman in the field. "Women perceive vehicles differently. And companies always want variations in the portrayal of their product," says Kadakia, who has worked with Skoda, Bajaj, Apollo and Maruti. Her work is visible in magazine ads, brochures, and on hoardings. In top gear, eh?

ROLE CALL

The most girl is back. Raveena Tandon, who had said goodbye to films post-marriage and motherhood, will be on 70 mm again. But this time, don't expect her to shake her booty. The actor, who was recently seen judging a reality show on TV, plans to put on the greasepaint for director Revathy's Just Aap Ke Liye. "The role is of a lawyer who's fighting against this male-dominated society. I love the role and the script. We are still working out the dates," says Tandon, who wants to do powerful and meaningful roles. Now where have we heard that one before?

FOTOCORP

The only angle from which to solve a problem is the try-angle.
