

Attacks THIS YEAR

From small towns to metropolitan cities, terror acquired a pan-India spread

DATE	PLACE	ATTACKS	AFFECTED	TERROR GROUPS	STATUS
January 1	Rampur UTTAR PRADESH	Assault on CRPF Group Centre	Eight dead	LeT	Two LeT operatives Fahim Ansari and Sabauddin Ahmed arrested by Uttar Pradesh ATS
May 13	Jaipur RAJASTHAN	Eight serial bomb blasts	80 dead	Indian Mujahideen	Bomb planter Mohammed Saif and SIMI leader Shahbaz Hussain arrested by Rajasthan ATS
July 25	Bangalore KARNATAKA	Eight low intensity blasts	1 dead	Indian Mujahideen	Karnataka Police is looking for Riyaz Bhatkal's associates who masterminded the blasts
July 26	Ahmedabad GUJARAT	Seventeen blasts in 10 areas	53 dead	Indian Mujahideen	Eighty persons chargesheeted, including alleged mastermind Abu Bashir Kasmi
September 13	Delhi	Five blasts in three areas	26 dead	Indian Mujahideen	Chargesheet filed. Five IM suspects charged with waging war against the state.
September 29	Malegaon MAHARASHTRA	One bomb blast	Six dead	Abhinav Bharat	Pragya Singh Thakur, Lt-Col Srikant Purohit and seven others arrested under MCOCA
October 30	Guwahati ASSAM	Nine blasts in four areas	84 dead	ULFA and HuJI	Case being investigated by the CBI. No arrests yet.
November 26-29	Mumbai MAHARASHTRA	Multiple terrorist attacks at 10 locations	186 dead	LeT	Under investigation. India has asked Pakistan to arrest LeT planner Zakiur Rahman Lakhvi.

Wahhab, the apostle of "absolute monotheism".

Modern jihad, as the Egyptian Qutb, himself a martyr, laid out in his influential Milestones, radical Islam's mandatory samizdat reading, is an active rejoinder to the godless ways of the West and the culture of jahiliyyah (ignorance): "There is only one place on earth which can be called the home of Islam, and it is the place where the Islamic state is established and the Shariah is the authority and God's limits are observed and where all Muslims administer the affairs of the state with mutual consultation." The terrorist is the god's volunteer who gives his life and takes others' for a future built on a perfumed past. He returns to the purity of the Book when the world around him becomes too profane, worthy of annihilation. In his hallucinatory vision, the India of 2008 was such a place. His grievance is not just Kashmir; the very concept of India is incompatible with his idea of justice. Every revolution needs an enemy; if there is none, the revolutionary will invent one. With the exception of Malegaon, which points to the possibility of "saffron terror", every attack on India bore the imprint of the jihadi. He doesn't always cross the sea to reach the target, and his nationality is not necessarily Pakistani. As the encounter at Batla House near the Jamia Millia campus in Delhi revealed, the terrorist could very well be the boy in the next classroom who had come to the big city from his home town of Azamgarh in eastern Uttar Pradesh. (Azamgarh, a favourite destination in terror tourism, has earned its notoriety as the common back story of almost every terrorist attack in the country.) That is the thing about the modern jihadi. He could be the prod-