

Can & Will

It's been seven long years since we saw the small screen's Kkusum, Nausheen Ali Sardar. What many don't know is that the actor has been missing in action not because she isn't working but because none of her films saw light of day. "Whatever I was doing wasn't working out. I did more than two films and both got canned," says Sardar. But her disappearing act will end soon. She will be seen in two films this year. Sardar plays a doctor in Nisha Chainani's unusually titled 42 Kms and has also started shooting for Vishal Pandya's Purple Lake. "The makers of 42 Kms wanted to release it during the Mumbai marathon," she says. The question is will it win the race?

"My character resembles a famous filmstar. I sing in nightclubs hoping someone will notice and give me a role."

Sonu Sood, actor, on his first international film, City of Life

KEY TO FAME

This one has come to Mumbai all the way from Sikkim. Debutant Geetanjali has bagged the leading role in Jism director Amit Saxena's Tina ki Chabi opposite Ranvir Shorey. "I had sent the director pictures and after an audition, he cast me," says the 21-year-old, who plays a half-Chinese girl in the film.

Circus Act

She calls him Sandy, he feeds her chicken tikka. That's what Sandip Soparrkar and Britney Spears want us to believe. There's more. First Soparrkar announced he was choreographing Spears' video, then she was to arrive in India (she didn't). The oh-my-God moment came when they became alleged 'lovers', upsetting girlfriend Jesse Randhawa. Now he claims to have given football star Maradona dance lessons. Really Sandip. Enough.

CLOCKWISE: SPEARS, SOPARRKAR AND RANDHAWA

Why did the triangle go to college?
Because it wanted another degree.

Har Angle se Mmmmm....

