MUSIC REVIEW

Note to Nature

Santoor maestro Pandit Tarun Bhattacharya draws inspiration from nature travelling as he does far and wide. Aboard buses or trains in new places, he finds that being by himself helps as he takes in the bounty of nature. The result: he keeps refuelling his creativity. In his latest album,

TARUN'S TRAVELOGUES

Tarun's Travelogues, he brings back the magic of the Shatatantri Veena, the precursor to the modern day instrument of santoor. The piece Farewell Forever is a pensive melody bidding goodbye to a loved one. Bhattacharya has used the sarangi, sitar, flute, guitar, dhol, pakhawaj and saxophone to create the right mood. What is noteworthy about Bhattacharya is his ability to excel both in the classical and fusion forms of music. His music not only soothes but makes one reflect as well.
