Every detail commands our obsessive attention. Consider the case of the watch. Instead of using a single piece of metal, we construct it out of five intricate parts. Each part is finished individually. This allows us to give multiple finishes even on sections of the case that are, in other circumstances, inaccessible. All to deliver an aesthetic touch bound to draw unconcealed admiration to your wrist.

Xylys is a work of superior craftsmanship, a testimony to the number of hours spent on it.
