

DELHI | Eye for an Eye

The retaliation has begun. Two dozen men belonging to Rashtravadi Shiv Sena (RSS), a faction of the Shiv Sena, vandalised the Maharashtra Sadan in Delhi on November 3, another reaction to the ongoing attacks on people from Bihar and Uttar Pradesh living in Mumbai by Raj Thackeray's MNS. RSS's head Jai Bhagwan Goyal, a loyal Shiv Sainik till the MNS began targeting north Indians in Mumbai, threatened to lay siege to the homes of 48 Marathi MPs in Delhi. Political adversaries from Bihar and Uttar Pradesh have now teamed up to seek action against the MNS.

Ingenuity is the name of the game in Punjab's well-oiled Rs 800-crore human trafficking industry. Six school and college students have gone missing in Germany while on a cultural exchange tour. Five peeled off after the 30-member troupe landed at Frankfurt Airport, leaving their passports behind. Another disappeared a day before the return flight.
