CRIMINAL LAPSES

No party can claim to be crime free. The increase in the number of MPs with criminal backgrounds involves all parties.

Among the very few negative aspects of the verdict is the number of MPs with criminal records who have been elected to the new Lok Sabha. Over one-fourth of the MPs who now have MP after their names also have their names registered in police stations across the country. They number a depressing 153 with criminal charges. The ruling Congress has 41 MPs with criminal cases against them. The BJP, the party with a difference, tops the list with 43 criminal MPs. But don't thrash the Indian voter yet. The five MPs with the most serious criminal cases from the 2004 Lok Sabha—Mitrasen, Atique Ahmed, Suraj Singh, Mohammed Shahabuddin and Prabhunath Singh—have either been rejected by voters or couldn't contest the elections. Pappu Yadav's proxy candidates—his wife and mother—also lost as did Shahabuddin's wife. The voters rejected criminals in constituencies where there was only one candidate with a criminal background. In such constituencies, voters chose 85 per cent of the clean candidates. The percentage of clean MPs, however, went down where there were more candidates with criminal antecedents.
