

THEATRE

Laugh Aloud

(L TO R) TONKINSON, MEO AND STONE

Comedy is serious business for them. In a landmark first for Mumbai, the stars of UK's comedy circuit—Sean Meo, Paul Tonkinson and Ian Stone—will perform in the city on a three-day tour. While Meo will play emcee for the event, Tonkinson and Stone will give the guests a little over an hour of rib-tickling comedy. Tonkinson, best loved by audiences for his guided tours through the differences in male and female logic, is also the first comic to perform in Iraq after the war officially ended. Stone, on the other hand, is considered the most talented topical compere. Meo is widely acknowledged as one of the finest performers and writers who turns out intelligent comedy at breakneck speed. The 30-year-old Comedy Store will use this tour as a curtain-raiser event, ahead of the launch of a similar store in Mumbai. Watch out for the gigs on June 4 at the Blue Frog, on June 5 at the Tata Experimental Theatre and on June 7 at the ITC Grand Maratha. by Swati Mathur

A STILL FROM THE MOVIE

FILM REVIEW KARMA: CRIME.PASSION.REINCARNATION

Sex and the City

RATING ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Director: M.R. Shahjahan

Starring: Vijayendra Ghatge, Alma Saracci, Carlucci Weyant

It's the kind of film where every new sentence begins with the last word of the previous sentence. Given that the dialogue is as flat as the acting in the film which stars people of indeterminate nationality, that's not saying much. American girl comes to Ooty as the wife of a tea planter's estranged scion. Turns out she was an Austrian girl who got raped here 30 years ago by...

Well, there's a mystery. But not rivetting enough to make you sit through a series of steamy sex scenes (in the shower, in the bedroom, in the living room), several sepia-tinted flashbacks and lots of gobbledygook dispensed by choli-clad temptresses passing themselves off as devis. If you must watch a low-rent horror movie about a young couple suffering from reincarnation blues in a misty hill station, opt for last year's 1920.

by Kaveree Bamzai

IF YOU HAVE 150 MINUTES, watch Tom Hanks and Ron Howard come together for Angels and Demons. Here's a gorgeous non-American co-star this time (Israeli Ayelet Zurer) and several stately actors trying to look serious. Enjoy.

MUSIC In Tune

MEMBERS OF THEM CLONES

The voting season might be over but here is a rock band seeking votes for their musical compositions. The Delhi-based five-member rock band, Them Clones, has devised a unique way to launch their album—Love, Hate, Heroes. The band has uploaded 17 of its compositions on its website, www.themclones.com. Tracks with the maximum hits will be compiled in the album to be released in August by Counter Culture Records. "Our way is of reaching out to the youth who are not only musically informed but spend lot of time on the Net," says Clarence Gonsalves, the band's bassist. The compositions are a mix of rock, jazz and country music. by S. Sahaya Ranjit