

ALL ABOUT Mother

It was Munnabhai's turn to get all emotional on April 26, when he visited the building in Kolkata where his mother, the legendary actress Nargis, was born. In West Bengal for a day to campaign for the Samajwadi Party (sp), Sanjay Dutt took time out to visit the house at 8, Indian Mirror Street, before attending an election meeting in Birbhum. He was accompanied by sp leader Amar Singh. Even as the news of Dutt's visit leaked out, people thronged the narrow lane, but his bodyguards saw to it that no one could really get close to the star. Even the residents of other flats in the building were kept at bay. Dutt spent about 10 minutes in a room where Nargis was believed to have been born in 1929 to Allahabad-based singer Jaddanbai and Uttamchand Mohanchand from Rawalpindi. "Thanks to Amar Singhji who found the house. It's a very emotional moment for me," he said, adding, "I was in the room alone for 10 minutes remembering my mother. Thanks to Kolkata and the people of Kolkata."

No Holds Barred

The Jadavpur constituency seems to be a hotbed of trouble. Shortly after cult singer and Trinamool candidate Kabir Suman was accused by the CPI(M) of not disclosing his wife's assets and marking them as 'Not Applicable', the party decided to get back, accusing his rival Sujan Chakraborty of hiding his tax details. Chakraborty, however, says that the allegations against him were "laughable". On his part, Suman told INDIA TODAY that his wife, famous Bangladeshi singer Sabina Yasmin, did not have a single penny now as she was cancer-ridden and terminally ill. "I have to beg and borrow to get money for her treatment. Where is the question of her having assets? Can't the communists leave her in peace? Her disease is in the fourth stage now." But the CPI(M) refuses to rest its case. This time the party is trying to play up a case of wife-beating that the singer's first wife had lodged and which had not been disclosed by him. Suman's stand? "They are stooping to conquer," he said.

DERA CHIEF GURMEET RAM RAHIM

Fair Play

Leaders cutting across political parties are queuing up to seek Dera Sacha Sauda chief Gurmeet Ram Rahim's blessings, and his followers' votes. The question on everyone's mind is: which political party will he favour? At a Sunday satsang held recently, the Baba said that he would want his followers to vote for someone who opposes intoxicants, corruption and foeticide, respects all religions, cares for his constituency and so on. It pays to be politically correct.
