

Care Taker

Gaurav Gaur's AIDS slogan-bearing car, and sometimes head, can't be missed. This social work lecturer caught the attention of Queen Elizabeth II after a photo of his shaven head appeared in the 2008 calendar of Johns Hopkins University. He was recently invited to Buckingham Palace to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the Commonwealth. "Slumdwellers are ignorant about AIDS and don't talk to doctors. They speak to me as I'm young," he says.

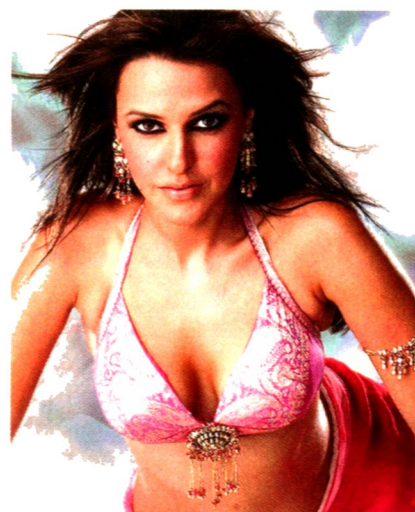

Dyeing to Dance

Neha Dhupia is getting jiggy with it. The actor, who's done a fair share of item numbers, will wear the dancing heels of a back-up dancer. Dhupia plays a Maharashtrian back-row dancer in Saurabh Shukla's Pappu Can't Dance Saala. "I play a complete brat in the film," she says. To get into the skin of the character, she dyed her hair red. Hope her colour experiment fares better than Priyanka Chopra's did in Love Story 2050.

"My job is to keep customers in their homes. This goes back to the values I was brought up with."

Sanjiv Das, CEO, CitiMortgage, on asking Americans to pay home mortgages during this crisis

BARE BY CHOICE

Indian-origin actors seem to be baring a lot more than just their talent. The Bend It Like Beckham girl Parminder Nagra has filmed her first nude scene for director-actor Ray Winstone's TV film Compulsion. The film revolves around Anjika Indrani (Nagra) who takes her employee's (Winstone) help to escape an arranged marriage. The nude scene is shot with Winstone. Nagra told the Daily Mail, "I know there will be a huge fuss when Compulsion comes out. My mum will probably disapprove but I'll deal with that. I'm old enough to make my decisions." Yes. At 33, she is.

Sunfeast
GOLDEN BAKERY

from the master bakers of
ITC HOTELS

Delicious Fresh-baked taste.
In Cookies.

Available in Choco-nut,
Butter-nut and Butterscotch