ARTEXHIBITION

African Mosaic

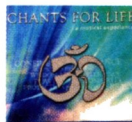

Continuing its attempts to promote new art and art forms, Sakshi Gallery in collaboration with The Centre for Contemporary Art, Lagos, presents Chance

Encounters: Seven Contemporary Artists from Africa. Curated by Bisi Silva, the exhibition contains works by acclaimed African artists like El Anatsui from Ghana, J.D. Okhai Ojeikere from Nigeria, Berry Bickle of Zimbabwe, Safaa Erruas of Morocco, Myriam Mihindou of Gabon and Nnenna Okore and Uche Iroha, both from Nigeria. The works highlight the way in which individual concerns, mediums and interests coalesce to reflect contemporary African society. The artists use different media like sculptures, paintings, photography and mixed media to touch on subjects of the body, memory, culture, history, colonialism, consumerism and environment. At Sakshi Gallery. On till May 24.

MUSIC REVIEW

Funky Fusion

CHANTS FOR LIFE
EMI
Rs 295

Kedar Pandit who conceived Chants for Life has given a funky feel to the traditional through this album. Sung by Sanjeev

Abhayankar, a disciple of Pandit Jasraj, his sensuous voice is steeped in melody. With the use of Western orchestration, Pandit has proved to be different. While some of the compositions are more like love songs, in the Tej Mantra a chorus adds vibrancy to the composition. Rampant Bollywoodisation has hit traditional chants, but then that is what makes it different.
