

6 Icy Paradise Pangi Valley

Pangi Valley is an unexplored paradise with stark mountains and deep gorges of the Chandrabhaga river. The lower ranges are lush rocky pastures as well as dense pine and cedar forests. For adventure seekers, the Pangi landscape offers high altitude treks to neighbouring Kashmir and Ladakh. The high-altitude passes here remain glaciated for most of the year.

7 Wild Delight Kala Top

Kala Top is a wild adventurer's delight nestling at 2,440 m. Located 5 km from the colonial-era hill resort of Dalhousie, its only approach is via meandering trails through a dense forest of towering pine and deodar trees. A part of the Kala Top is a wildlife sanctuary. A mélange of treks connect Kala Top with wild getaways such as Bakrota hills, Bara Pathar, Jandri Ghat and Subhash Baoli.

8 Heaven on Earth Ananda

The USP of Ananda is that the spa is the main experience. Overlooking Rishikesh Valley from a ridge in the Himalayan foothills amid 100 acres of virgin forest, the 21,000 sq ft spa's Ananda's signature massage, the "Abhyanga", a traditional Kerala creation using natural herb oils and other exotic potions, is your shortcut to therapy heaven.

9 Laidback Glory Hampi

The ruins of the glorious Vijayanagar Dynasty are now heritage spots and quaint trails. Hemakuta Hill holds breathtaking sunrises and sunsets. Hampi is also the backpacker's delight. The open-air restaurant Under the Mango Tree is aptly located under a mango tree. For souvenirs, there's the quaint but charming town of Anegundi.

10 Isolated Castaway Bangaram Island

There aren't too many picture-perfect castaway destinations like this uninhabited emerald atoll in the Lakshadweep Islands. Sitting on its own lagoon in the vast turquoise blue of the Arabian Sea, the 168-acre island has no inhabitants, just vast stretches of a silver beach and palm trees. Bangaram is 460 km off the Kerala coast and is a one-hour flight from Kochi. The facilities at the Bangaram Island Resort, the only one here, include a number of water sports.
