

PRAMOD PUSHKARNA

6 The Ugly Indian 1998

After 51 years of freedom, INDIA TODAY said "We, the people, aren't a pretty sight". The cover of a cop taking a bribe led to this perfect name, inspired by the 1958 novel The Ugly American.

8 The Great Indian Wedding 2001

INDIA TODAY noted that weddings had spawned a Rs 5,000-crore industry. No expense was to be spared for Daddy's Little Princess and Little Prince.

9 The New World of Guppies 2003

The birth of Gurgaon's upwardly mobile urban professionals, perfect examples of what it called cowdung capitalism where the buffalo and Benz share road space, was noted by INDIA TODAY.

5 Nervously Returning Indians 1996

"No longer do NRIs have to sweat it out in the Foreigners' Registration Office as visas are readily issued," said INDIA TODAY. Yet they found it a bit of a Wild East with complaints about Indian standard time, cars and cows.

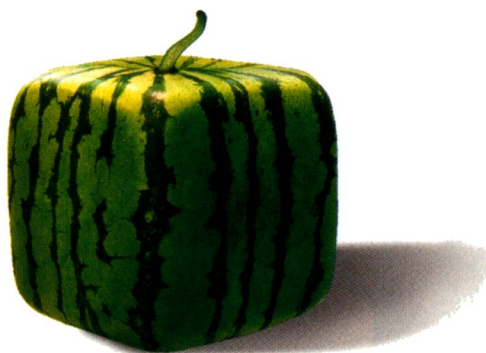

7 The Luckies 2001

Wealthy, glib, global well-groomed and spoilt for choice, INDIA TODAY noted in 2001 that the opening up of India had created its most happening generation—Labelled, Urban, Chilled, Kicked-with-life Indians, in short Luckies.

10 The Snort Set 2006

The Rahul Mahajan drug bust led to another expose on the rampant drug abuse among young urbanites by INDIA TODAY after 1999.

Innovation

through progressive research everyday, everywhere.

Crompton
Greaves

EVERYDAY SOLUTIONS