

GREAT IDEAS

GREAT MINDS

Rahul Dravid

Demand more from yourself. Push that extra yard. Break out of your comfort zone in the PURSUIT OF EXCELLENCE.

V for victory: The Indian cricket team celebrating its win against England at the Oval last year

In my career as a cricketer, I have come to understand the full meaning of the phrase 'the comfort zone' more and more every day. As I gained experience in cricket, I realised how important it was to break out of your 'comfort zone' if you really want to succeed and excel right at the top of your profession.

No matter what we do, we all know it is too easy to resign yourself to mediocrity and to the idea of just getting by. But if you want to excel, if you want to be more than just 'good', and to even aspire for greatness, you have to drive yourself to be ambitious enough, push that extra yard, demand more from yourself than you would otherwise need to give.

Only you can motivate yourself to want to perform at this level. It is a drive that has to come from within. You have to believe in the idea of excellence and work towards it. In