Benefit from technology

Technology is a great new way to access your bank account. It can help you save time, effort and money. With services like net banking you can: know your bank balance to the date and much more. On the security front:

- Avoid using public terminals.
- Always type the web address yourself and never use links. Ensure that the web address is preceded by a <https://> and that the padlock sign appears at the right hand bottom corner of the page.
- Always log off and close the browser window after you finish online banking.
- Regularly change your passwords and protect it. Password should not be simple which can be easily guessed.
- Never disclose account details and passwords over internet (by mail) or over telephone to anyone (including persons identifying themselves as bank officials).
