

AHMEDABAD | Back to the Future

The Gujarat High Court setting aside the provisions of POTA in the Godhra carnage has come as a jolt to the state police. This may lead to bail for nearly 100 Muslims languishing in jail since 2002 on charges of hatching a conspiracy and burning alive 59 Ramsevakhs by torching the Sabarmati Express on February 27, 2002. The Special Investigation Team appointed at the behest of the Supreme Court last year to reinvestigate 10 cases pertaining to the riots has exposed the role of Left-wing human rights activists in levelling serious false charges. A Muslim woman has revealed that she was forced to sign a police statement in English, a language she doesn't understand. Another who was declared killed in the riots was found to have died of TB six months before the carnage. Truth, when it comes to two diametrically extreme positions on the same subject, lies somewhere in between. by Uday Mahurkar

Nose Dive

Five months after the Department of Expenditure directed government officials to deposit their frequent flier miles—gained on official trips—with the concerned ministries, no official has done so for lack of specific guidelines, defeating the very purpose of saving public money.

MUMBAI | Vest is Best

When he should be keeping an eye on security after 26/11, Maharashtra Home Minister Jayant Patil was busy launching a men's undergarments brand named after himself in hometown Islampur. The chaddi campaign coincided with his birthday on February 16 with the launch of Jayant, a line of vests and knickers. Special guest actor John Abraham was gifted a silver sword. Bulletproof vests can wait. by Aditi Pal
