

Fake Currency: The New Threat

FEBRUARY 16, 2009

As counterfeit currency floods the market, India faces a serious ISI-inspired challenge to undermine its economy. An in-depth report on the implications.

“The economic terrorism being unleashed by our neighbour needs to be brought to its logical conclusion. We need to strengthen our intelligence services to combat the influx of fake notes.”

K. CHIDANAND KUMAR, via www.indiatoday.in

Fake Threat

It's little talked about, but the menacing low-cost assault by Pakistan on our economy is a matter of concern. India is up against a wily neighbour and any cooperation from it to curb the peril of economic terrorism is ruled out. The Government will have to improve the system and design a hard-to-copy but easy-to-detect currency. It also has to create greater public awareness.

Y.G. CHOUKSEY,
via www.indiatoday.in

Fighting Fit

The Cabinet where the average age of ministers is 67 years, with eight of them being over 70 and 17 over 60, reveals the poor state of the nation's health ("Manmohan Singh: Will He Be Fit",

India Calling

When it comes to surveys, youngsters are game for it. But when it comes to casting their vote, they seem quite disinterested ("Do It or Be Damned", February 16). To make our democracy productive, an efficacious remedy would be to make young India participate enthusiastically in the electoral process.

BAL GOVIND, via www.indiatoday.in

Electoral reforms to make our elected representatives accountable will add a new dimension to the ailing political system. Like we have the right to vote and elect the representatives of governing bodies at various levels, the right to recall elected ones in the event of inefficiency must be included in the democratic rights of a citizen.

V.K. NAIR, via www.indiatoday.in February 9). There should be a retirement age for politicians and if possible, a maximum age limit for the ministers.

TAPAS CHAKRABORTY,
via www.indiatoday.in

Manmohan Singh dedicated the best years of his life to the service of the nation. Now it is time for the ailing prime minister to take it easy and make way for the efficient and erudite new generation to take charge of governing our democracy.

S. LAKSHMI,
via www.indiatoday.in

Unholy Row

With his surreptitious approach, Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) N. Gopalaswami stands exposed not only for his evil designs and vicious

FOR SUBSCRIPTION ASSISTANCE, CONTACT: Customer Care, India Today Group, A-61, Sector-57, Noida (Uttar Pradesh)-201301.
Phones: 2479900 from Noida, 95120-2479900 from Delhi and Faridabad, and 0120-2479900 from Rest of India.
Toll Free No.: 1800 1800 100. Fax: 0120-4078080. E-mail: wecare@intoday.com