

ASSEMBLY Elections 08

This is one round of elections where the end is more exciting than the means. The results will be a huge morale booster for the winner in what is regarded as a run-up to the general elections. The campaign has a deja vu flavour with national leaders of the BJP and the Congress trading the same allegations as they did on the floor of Parliament. It is now left to local talent to add some spice to the campaign.

Going Glocal

PANKAJ TIWARI

KAMAL NATH

He may be in the midst of a tribal belt fighting a heated poll campaign that may make him chief minister, but Kamal Nath still reads International Herald Tribune before taking off for his day's campaign every morning. For the Union commerce global economic arena is his. And he knows how to. In Chhindwara, he recalls farmers during trade talks. He talked of how heavy developed countries affect constituency. Puzzled rushed to find Chhindwara. Clearly, he thinks globally.

SINS OF THE SON

In Delhi's social circles, Jagat Singh was a known party hopper. Pity the tag followed him into politics too. After Natwar Singh fell out with the Congress, both joined the BSP. But with Mayawati not conceding to their demands, Jagat shifted to the BJP. The boot for dad followed.
